INTRODUCTION

THE INTERESTING WORLD WE ARE LIVING IN

There is so much going on in our world today!

When last did you listen to the world news - whether on television, social media, or via online news sites? How did it make you feel - enlightened or embattled?

And when last did a neighbour, work colleague, classmate, or store assistant make a comment about your faith or lifestyle? How did it make you feel - excited or exasperated?

The challenges of life and people can drain you with their negativity.

Indeed, we are living in interesting times. However, the interesting question is - what is the way forward?

A POSITIVE WAY FORWARD

Trials are a normal part of a believer's life. This is captured in a verse of the noble Quran: 'Do the people think that they will be left to say, 'We believe' and they will not be tried?' [Al-'Ankabut 29:2]

Therefore, the positive way forward is to accept all trials but empower yourself with the right attitude, knowledge, and tools for dealing with them.

Too many times, we fold our hands and either complain or point fingers. At other times, we engage in fruitless debates and unending status updates in reaction to the latest happenings.

Isn't it time to do things differently?

CREATING A BETTER NARRATIVE

Why complain and question the tests you are facing in life?

Why wait for negative news from the media or stories from your friends and loved ones?

Why not start empowering yourself so you can empower our Ummah?

For each time you feel like tearing out your hair or crying out in frustration about your personal challenges and the state of the Ummah, remember you have the means of bringing about positive change.

You can help create a better narrative and reduce the negativity bias - one positive step at a time.
